

I believe that any relaxing or elimination of broadcast ownership restrictions is a mistake. Competition has already been stifled by large media companies who have taken over most of the commercial radio stations in America. The proposed changes would result a few large companies controlling all of the information we receive through broadcast and print. Free speech would no longer be free, but controlled by a few people who have been licensed by the government. We must keep the public airwaves public.